

Deconstructed burger

You may have heard the buzz-word 'deconstructed' in food descriptions, especially on cooking shows. It is when traditional recipes or food combinations are taken apart (deconstructed) and presented in a different way. It is a great way to generate ideas and create new food products!

Today we are going to deconstruct a burger.

1 Draw or paste an image of the key parts of a burger, and then label each part.

Hint: use words to describe the attributes of each part.

2 Brainstorm different ways that you could present this food product so that:

- it looks different to a traditional burger
- it uses ALL the parts of a burger.

Hint: you may wish to use pictures, diagrams or cut-outs to help you explain your ideas.

